First Impressions

Kuching, the capital of Sarawak, is simply unique. No other city in Malaysia has such a romantic and unlikely history, nor displays its charms with such an easy grace. The residents of Kuching (pop. 650,000 approx.) enjoy living here, and take great pride in their fascinating city, which is reflected in their attitude to visitors. Kuching welcomes visitors warmly, but it does not put on an act for them. Instead it goes about its own business in a relaxed manner that hasn't changed in 160 years.

It is impossible to really enjoy Kuching from the air conditioned comfort of a tour bus. To make the most of your visit you must put on your walking shoes, take to the streets (and the water), and join in.

Like all towns and cities in Borneo, the focal point of Kuching and the reason for its existence is the river. Hiring a sampan to meander slowly up and down the Sarawak River is the best way to get your first impression of Kuching. From the river you will see picturesque Malay villages (kampungs), a golden-domed mosque, a Victorian fort, a whole street of 19th century Chinese shophouses and an imposing wooden-roofed palace, all set against a background of distant mountains.

Kuching's city centre is well preserved and very compact; virtually everything that is worth seeing can be reached on foot or by sampan. The narrow, bustling streets are crammed with shops selling all manner of goods, from the mundane to the exotic. There are ornate Chinese temples, many fine examples of colonial-style architecture, a beautiful waterfront and a number of interesting museums, including the historic Sarawak Museum. There is an excellent range of accommodation, from luxury via boutique to budget, good restaurants, and nightlife to suit most tastes and pockets. You can try local delicacies such as deer meat and jungle fern, drink a glass or two of tuak (local rice wine), or feast on a vast array of seafood dishes.

Kuching has an unusual name - the word means "cat" in Malay. There are a number of stories as to how this name came about, but it is unlikely that it has anything to do with cats. The two more likely explanations are that it derives from the Chinese word kochin, meaning "harbour," or that it is named after the mata kuching or "cat's eye" fruit, a close relative of the lychee that grows widely here.

Sarawak is a unique and enjoyable tourism destination, and Kuching is the ideal base from which to go exploring. The nearby national parks include the famous Bako, home of the rare proboscis monkey, Gunung Gading, where giant rafflesia flowers bloom, Kuching Wetlands, which protects a fascinating mangrove ecosystem, Kubah, with its rare palms and orchids, and Semenggoh and Matang Wildlife Centres with their resident orangutans. Literally hundreds of Iban and Bidayuh longhouses are within easy travelling distance. Damai, on the nearby Santubong Peninsula is Sarawak's main resort area, and many travel agents offer "two-centre" packages allowing you to explore Kuching, go on a longhouse trip, visit Bako and the rainforest and then relax on the beach after the rigours of jungle trekking. See the Damai and Santubong section for details.

Kuching is also the ideal base for visiting longhouses. Local travel agents have a variety of tours, ranging from half-day trips to nearby Bidayuh longhouses, to week-long safaris to Iban longhouses on the Skrang, Lemanak and Batang Ai river systems.

The People

Kuching is a cosmopolitan city, and this is reflected in the faces on the streets. Whilst the population is predominantly Chinese and Malay, Kuching is home to people from...
James Brooke’s nephew Charles, who succeeded him, was no adventurer like his uncle, but an excellent administrator and politician. He set up a proper system of government, gradually expanding his area of control until it formed the present day Sarawak. His legacy is everywhere in Kuching. It was he who built the Astana, Fort Margherita, the Courthouse, the Sarawak Museum and many other fine buildings. Charles Brooke died in 1917, and was succeeded by his son, Charles Vyner Brooke, who built on his father’s achievements and improved the general administration of the state. In 1941 he set up a State Council to oversee the passing of new laws, bringing the first stirrings of democracy to Sarawak. The rule of the State Council was short-lived, as the Japanese invaded at the end of the same year.

When the Japanese surrendered in September 1945, Sarawak came under Australian military administration. Vyner Brooke felt the state would be better off as a Crown Colony and ceded it to Britain. This move was very unpopular and resulted in the assassination of the Governor, Duncan Stewart, in 1949. Order was eventually restored and the colonial administration concentrated on preparing Sarawak for independence. On 22nd July 1963, Sarawak gained independence, then shortly afterwards joined with Malaya, Sabah and Singapore (subsequently expelled in 1965) to form the new nation of Malaysia on September 16th 1963.

City Government
Many publications cite Kuching as having two city councils. This is not strictly true, as Kuching is actually administered by three local governments. The Commission of the City of Kuching North (DBKU) covers all areas of the city north of the Sarawak River, including the Santubong and Bako Peninsulas, as well as the western part of the central business district. Kuching South City Council (MBKS) administers the eastern part of the Central Business District and the urbanised heart of the city. Many of the southern and eastern suburbs fall under the remit of the Padawan Municipal Council (MPP).

City Attractions
Old Kuching is easy to discover by yourself. However, most local tour operators offer affordable half-day guided tours of the city, either by bus or on foot. CPH Travel (Tel: 414021) even offer a guided bicycle tour - see tour operator listings on page 26 for contact details.

Orientation: This guide is aimed primarily at tourists.
Threfore when we refer to walking or taxi distances from the city centre, we mean the historic centre, i.e. Main Bazaar and the Kuching Waterfront.

Along the River

Kuching Waterfront, a major restoration and land reclamation project, has become the most popular meeting place in the city. A 1.2km long promenade, further extended by the 550 m Kuching Esplanade as far as the Brooke Dockyard, is beautifully landscaped and dotted with wooden benches, food stalls, restaurants and entertainment facilities. A number of older buildings have been preserved and incorporated into the design, including the Chinese History Museum, the Sarawak Steamship Building and the Square Tower. Modern additions include a restored Chinese pavilion, an open-air theatre and a number of contemporary sculptures. During the daytime, the Waterfront offers excellent views of the Astana, Fort Margherita, the State Assembly Building and the Malay Kampungs which line the north bank of the river, but at night-time it really comes alive; it seems like half of Kuching is out meeting friends, watching a show, or just taking the air. It really comes alive; it seems like half of Kuching is out meeting friends, watching a show, or just taking the air.

The Kuching City Hall on Jalan Padungan is one of the city's best-known landmarks, and also houses a fascinating Pictorial Gallery of photos and artifacts tracing the history of Kuching (gallery open Mon-Fri 8.30 am - 5 pm). The Kuching North City Hall with its huge Sarawak flag dominates the Petra Jaya skyline, offering great views of the city, and is home to the world's first Cat Museum (see page 9).

Mosques, Temples & Churches

The Kuching Mosque, previously the State Mosque, is best seen from the river. It was built in 1968 on the site of an older wooden mosque and is enclosed by a tranquil Muslim cemetery. Its gilded cupolas make it one of the city's most striking landmarks, particularly at sunset.

The State Mosque, built in 1990 across the Sarawak River at Petra Jaya, is the largest religious building in Sarawak. Its striking design features a single cupola and Italian marble interior detailing.

The ornately decorated Tua Pek Kong Temple is located on Jln Tunku Abdul Rahman, opposite the Waterfront, and is the oldest Chinese temple in Kuching. It is believed to date from 1843, although official records only recognise its existence since 1876.

The Sri Srinivasagar Kaliamman Temple on Jalan Ban Hock is tranquil most of the week, but comes alive with the chanting of Bhajans (Hindu devotional songs) on Friday evenings, as does the larger and more modern Sri Maha Mariamman Temple on Jalan Tun Ahmad Zaidi Adручre (3 km from centre). Visitors are welcome at both temples.

The gilded domes of Kuching's only Sikh temple, the imposing Gurdwara Sahib in Jalan Masjid, complement those of the neighbouring Kuching Mosque (see above), providing excellent photo opportunities. Visitors are welcome to enjoy a free vegetarian lunch every Sunday.

The Astana, the imposing palace on the north bank of the river opposite the Waterfront, was built in 1870 by Charles Brooke as a bridal gift to his wife Margaret. It is nowadays the official residence of the Governor of Sarawak, and only open to visitors during the Governor's Hari Raya Open Day (28th or 29th July, check local media for details).

The Square Tower on the Waterfront was built in 1879 as a fortress, but fortunately never fired a shot in anger, unlike its wooden predecessor which was burnt down in the 1857 gold miners’ rebellion. The Sarawak Steamship Building, also on the Waterfront, was built in 1930, and was previously the offices and warehouse of the Sarawak Steamship Company. It now the home of the Kuching Waterfront Bazaar, with dozens of stalls selling handicrafts and souvenirs.

Jalan Carpenter, which extends into Jalan Ewe Hai, runs parallel to Main Bazaar and has a similar selection of small traders, coffee shops and food stalls. The whole area oozes charm and character. Off Lebuh China (Upper China St.) there is a row of perfectly preserved 19th century Chinese houses.

Contemporary Architecture

Dominating the north bank of the Sarawak River is the New Sarawak State Assembly Building or Dewan Undangan Negeri Sarawak with its remarkable umbrella-shaped roof. Completed in 2009, it is the seat of the State Parliament and is not open to visitors.

The futuristic Civic Centre Tower in Jalan Taman Budaya offers the best all-round views of Kuching and the surrounding area. The city and its hinterland, Mount Serapi, Mount Santubong and even the mountains of Kalimantan are visible on a clear day. Open daily 9 am - 5 pm, entrance to viewing platform RM3.

The adjacent Sultan Iskandar Planetarium presents a selection of full-dome astronomy movies daily. RM 2 per showing. Open 9 am - 4 pm Mon - Fri, 9 am - 1 pm weekends. Closed public holidays.

The State Mosque, built in 1990 across the Sarawak River at Petra Jaya, is the largest religious building in Sarawak. Its striking design features a single cupola and Italian marble interior detailing.

Tucked away between Jalan Gambier and Jalan India, the Masjid India is the oldest intact mosque in Sarawak. Built by Sarawak's Indian Muslim community in 1837, it features a huge drum, or bedok, which accompanies the call to prayer.

Note: Visitors to mosques are requested to dress respectfully and remove their shoes. Non-Muslims may not enter during prayer times.

Fort Margherita was built in 1879 to guard Kuching’s river approaches from pirates. Named after Charles Brooke’s wife, Ranee Margaret, it is an extremely interesting building. It is currently undergoing renovation but should be open by early 2014. Sampans go to the Fort from various Waterfront jetties.

The Court House Complex or Sarawak Tourism Complex (junction of Main Bazaar and Jalan Tun Abang Haji Openg, facing the Waterfront) was built in 1871 as the seat of Sarawak's government, and was used for this purpose as late as 1973. It is a superb collection of buildings, with magnificent belian (ironwood) roofs and beautiful detailing inside and out, reflecting local art forms. The colonial-baroque Clock Tower was added in 1883 and the Charles Brooke Memorial in 1924. The complex also includes The Pavilion Building - a piece of old New Orleans transplanted to Kuching, completed in 1909 used for many years as the General Hospital and now transformed into Sarawak's Textile Museum - and The Round Tower, originally planned as a fort (1886), then used as a dispensary, and nowadays the headquarters of the Sarawak Craft Council. Following restoration of the original buildings and redevelopment, this important heritage site reopened in 2003. Now known as the Sarawak Tourism Complex, the area also houses the Visitor Information Centre.

The Main Post Office on Jln Tun Haji Openg is another good example of Kuching's cosmopolitan architectural mix. Built in 1931, it appears to belong to the early 19th century with its neo-classical style and Corinthian columns.

Museums, Galleries, Etc.

Note: Unless otherwise stated, museums are open daily from 9 am to 4.45 pm weekdays, 10 am to 4 pm weekends, and closed on major public holidays.

The Sarawak Museum, straddling both sides of Jln Tun Abang Haji Openg, has one of the best ethnographic collections in Southeast Asia. The Old Building, opened in 1891, is designed in the style of a Normandy town-house. It houses an exceptional ethnographic collection, some good natural history displays and a section on the work of Alfred Russel Wallace. The exhibition of traditional wood-carvings on the first floor is magnificent. The adjacent Art Gallery houses works of art pertaining to Sarawak, as well as exhibitions by local artists, while the Natural History Museum expands on the collection housed in the Old Building. The New Wing across the footbridge is used for events and exhibitions and has a magnificent Sarawak Craft Council's Handicraft Centre in the Round Tower (see Court House Complex). Groups of craftsmen from rural villages and longhouses demonstrate their skills in various Sarawak crafts, rotating on a monthly basis. The centre also has interesting handicraft displays, and a resource centre with a library and handicraft videos. Tel: 425652. Open Mon-Fri 8.30 am - 12.30 pm (11.30 pm Fri) and 2 pm - 5 pm, weekends and public holidays 8.30 am - 12.00.

Tanot House on Jalan Tabuan (1st right after the Inland Revenue Academy) is a collective of Sarawakian women weavers dedicated to producing and promoting hand-crafted Sarawakian songket textiles. Originating as a research and development workshop supported by HM the Queen of Malaysia, Tanoti seeks to improve the livelihoods of womenfolk and rural communities through the ancient art of songket weaving. Visitors are welcome to visit the workshop and textile gallery but please call before you drop by, Tel: 019 2810098, http://tanoticrofts.com.

The Islamic Museum is located on Jln P. Ramlee in the Maderasah Melayu Building (1930). It is also accessible from the rear of the Sarawak Museum's new wing. It presents a clear picture of the rich historical heritage and special culture of the Muslim community in Sarawak and throughout the Malay-Indonesian archipelago, and traces connections with the development of Islam in the rest of the World. The museum consists of 7 galleries set around a central courtyard garden, each with a different theme.

The Chinese History Museum, on the Waterfront opposite the Tua Peck Kong temple, traces the history of the Chinese community in Sarawak. Exhibits include early trade routes, migration from China, geographical distribution, early pioneers, traditional trading activities, formation of trade / community associations, political history, and the involvement of the Chinese community in modern, multi-racial Sarawak.

The small Sabati Women's Museum, in the Courthouse Complex, traces the contribution of the state's womenfolk to the development of modern Sarawak.

The Textile Museum, housed in the Pavilion Building opposite the Main Post Office on Jln Tun Haji Abang Openg, showcases Sarawak's fascinating traditional textiles, most notably the Iban pau kumbu and Malay kain songket.

Textile buffs interested in a more hand-on experience should not miss the Datin Amar Margaret Unggi Memorial Gallery, 4th Floor, Tun Jugah Tower, Jln Tunku Abdul Rahman. Run by the Tun Jugah Foundation, it houses a superb collection of Iban pau kumbu textiles, as well as exquisite Iban silverware and jewellery. You can also watch the weavers at work, or even learn the craft yourself (if you have a year or two to spare). Visitors are welcome, but should make an appointment. www.tunjughafoundation.org.my Tel: 239672. Open Mon- Fri 9 - 12 am, 2 - 4 pm.

Another good place to see authentic Sarawak handicrafts is the Sarawak Craft Council's Handicraft Centre in the Round Tower (see Court House Complex). The Timber Museum is situated in the Wisma Sumber Alam building in Petra Jaya. Anyone with an interest in forestry, traditional wood items, forest products and the development of the timber industry should head here. Tel: 434377. Mon-Fri 8.30 am - 5 pm. Take a taxi.

The Sarawak State Library, an elegant modern building in Petra Jaya, has extensive collections and databases on almost everything you could want to know about Sarawak. Tel: 442000. Open Mon. 2 pm - 9 pm, Tue-Sat 10 am - 9 pm, closed most public holidays. The library enforces a strict dress code – smart casual is the order of the day. Take a taxi.

Orchid lovers should make a beeline for the DBKU Orchid Garden between the New State Assembly Building and the Astana. This 15.4 acre garden houses over 75,000 plants belonging to 82 genera, including Sarawak's state flower the Normah Orchid (Phalaenopsis bellina), the Lady's Slipper (Paphiopedilum sanderinum), Coelogyne pandurata - the green and black flowered orchid, and Bulbophyllum beccarii - the flower with stinking smell. Open Tuesday-Sunday 9.30 am - 6 pm, admission free. Access by tambang from Waterfront.

Streetlife

The Satok Weekend Market, which actually starts on Saturday afternoon, has now moved from Jalan Satok to new purpose-built premises just across the river. It is still renowned for the Bidayuh ladies who set up shop here selling fruit and vegetables, and there are also many good Chinese and Malay stalls. Goods on offer include handicrafts, forest produce (including delicious wild honey), pets of all descriptions, orchid plants, live fish, and a whole range of local snacks and delicacies. The market is a must for weekend visitors, as it is very colourful and teeming with shoppers. The best time to go is Saturday night or early Sunday morning. Bus No K5, K7, K15, K21B or K71 to Jln Satok (ask driver for Green Rd stop then 5 mins walk). Mon-Fri 9 am - 5 pm. Tel: 429361 Email: wesberly@gmail.com. www.wesberly.com.my.

Jalan Padungan is lined with Chinese shophouses, mostly built in the 1920’s and 30’s during the rubber boom. Some are very elegantly decorated, and a walk round the back of the buildings can reveal fascinating architectural details. The area has some excellent coffee shops, pubs and restaurants, more handicraft shops and some unusual specialist retailers including an entire block of fruit and flower sellers. The Great Cat of Kuching, a monumental kitsch statue, is situated at the junction of Jln Padungan and Jln Central.

The Jalan India pedestrian area is lined with shops selling all kinds of goods, particularly textiles, watches, bags and gold jewellery. Mid-way down Jln India is a narrow passageway that passes by the entrance of the Indian Mosque (see page 5) and leads to Jln Gambier, home of Kuching’s Indian spice traders.

The Malay Kampungs (villages) along the riverside next to Fort Margherita have some beautiful examples of traditional and modern Malay architecture and the residents are very pleased to see visitors. Many families here have developed a thriving cottage industry selling kek lapis (Sarawak layer cake) from their homes and are generous with free samples. There are some more superb Malay houses south of the river around Jln Datuk Abol Ahmad, past the Kuching Mosque. Both these areas are particularly noteworthy as they are self-contained, intact traditional communities existing within a modern city.

DAMAI AND SANTUBONG

The Santubong Peninsula is located at the West Mouth of the Sarawak River. At its northern tip, Mount Santubong (810 m) rises majestically from the sea. The area has been settled since ancient times, and was once a major trading centre. The Peninsula, particularly Damai, is a popular beach resort area and a good base for discovering the charms of Southwest Sarawak. All manner of attractions are here; sleepy fishing villages, primary rainforest, superb seafood restaurants, an Arnold Palmer-designed golf course, a “living museum”, and a choice of beach resort hotels and guest houses.

On a clear day, Santubong offers spectacular sunsets, as the sun sinks slowly into the sea framed by rolling hills on one side and scattered islands on the other. Tours and excursions can be made from the various hotels at Damai or from Kuching, and include jungle treks to the summit of Mount Santubong (recently gazetted as a National Park), Irrawaddy dolphin watching tours, river cruises and wildlife watching tours, and bird watching at Buntal - one of Malaysia’s most important sites for migratory birds. Just offshore are two small islands - Pulau Satang Besar and Pulau Satang Kecil, part of the Talang-Satang National Park. Satang Besar is one of Sarawak's three "Turtle Islands" and an important conservation zone for green turtles which come ashore to lay eggs.

Transport: Santubong Village is roughly 31 km from Kuching. The Damai Beach area is 35 km. If you are staying more than a day or two, a rental car, motorcycle or bicycle is highly recommended. For transport details see Travel Connections listings.

Tour Options & Day Trips

Sarawak Cultural Village, Damai Beach (turn right at roundabout): “See Sarawak in Half a Day” is the claim made by Sarawak Cultural Village, a unique award-winning living museum offering an excellent introduction to local cultures and lifestyles. On a sprawling 17-acre site just a short walk from the nearby resort hotels, there are replica buildings representing every major ethnic group in Sarawak; Bidayuh, Iban and Orang Ulu longhouses, a Penan jungle settlement, a Melanau tall-house, a Malay town house with adjacent top-spinning court, a Chinese farm House and a Chinese pagoda. All the buildings are staffed with members of the various ethnic groups, in traditional costume, carrying out traditional activities. Each building has a “storyteller” who is expert in describing and interpreting traditional cultures and lifestyles. Staff will happily pose with you for photos.

After touring the village, you can enjoy a multi-cultural dance performance in the village’s own theatre, or maybe take dance and music lessons for only RM10 per hour. There is also a good restaurant and a handicrafts shop on-site. The Cultural Village can also host theme dinners and parties (check with your hotel), and you can even get married here, in traditional Iban, Bidayuh,
Watching Irrawaddy Dolphin

River Cruises: See Kuching Wetlands National Park

Irrawaddy Dolphin Watching: The Santubong area is one of the best places in Sarawak to see the rare Irrawaddy dolphin, which inhabits the Santubong, Salak and Buntal river estuaries. On rare occasions finless porpoises and Indo-pacific humpback dolphins also are sighted. The Irrawaddy is a relatively shy dolphin - it’s usually hard to see so a good guide-cum-spotter is essential. CPH Travel pioneered dolphin watching tours in Sarawak and run regular dolphin-spotting trips. Best from April to October, but also possible at other times if water conditions are right. Contact CPH at Tel: 243708. www.cptravel.com.my.

Jungle Trekking: There are a number of jungle trekking and walking trails at Damai. The ‘Santubong Jungle Trek’ (blue trail markings) is a circular trail situated close to the hotels. The 2 km long trail takes 1-2 hours and begins at a ‘Starter Hut’ on the Santubong-Kuching Road. Pick up a trail map from hotel recreation counters. Damai Rainforest Resort also maintains a trail behind its activity centre. By far the toughest trek is the Mount Santubong Summit Trek (red trail markings) which takes 4-7 hours (up and down) depending on fitness and the route taken. Two trails lead to the summit. The ‘Main Trail’ starts near the resort hotels whilst a ‘Short Cut’ trail starts a few hundred metres past the derelict Damai Lookout Point on the Santubong-Kuching road. Whatever route you opt for it is essential to wear good hiking shoes and take plenty of drinking water. You can trek to the summit by yourself or go with a guide. Check with hotel recreation counters.

Malay Villages: There are a few interesting coastal villages (kampungs) in the Santubong Peninsula. The most accessible from Damai is Kampung Santubong, a well-kept Malay beach-side village at the foot of Mount Santubong. Pasir Panjang and Pasir Pandak are two kampungs which are surrounded by small rolling hills, coconut groves and durian orchards. Both have good beaches which can get busy at weekends. Pasir Panjang also offers the D’Cove Family Park, with food stalls, rest areas, children’s playground and children’s pool. Although Santubong is within walking distance (4 km) from Damai beach, the other villages require transport.

Buntal, a colourful Malay fishing village located off the Kuching-Santubong road 25 km from Kuching, is famous for the seafood restaurants perched on wooden stilts which line the shore. Less well known is that the surrounding sand-flats, mangroves, rivers and nearshore waters provide a rich habitat for wildlife. Buntal is an important wintering ground for migratory bird species and the best site in the Santubong Peninsula for bird watching. The whole Bako-Buntal Bay is listed as an ‘Important Bird Area’ by Birdlife International. The best time for bird watching is from October to March, when large numbers of migratory birds can be seen including plovers, terns, egrets, sandpipers and gulls among others some rare migrants. Resident birds include the white-bellied sea eagle, brahminy kite and collared kingfisher. The mangroves near Buntal support silver-leaf monkeys, long-tailed macaques, monitor lizards, otters, crocodiles and a diversity of birdlife. Buntal Boat Cruise offers a range of mangrove and wildlife cruises - contact Ehwain Ibrahim on 082-846977 or 019-8785088.

Malay or Orang Ulu style! Admission is RM 60 (Children age 6-12, RM 30.00, below 6 free). Local tour operators also offer half-day and full-day tours from Kuching, including lunch and transport to and from your hotel, at very affordable prices. Open 9 am – 4.45 pm daily. Dance performances at 11.30 am and 4.00 pm. Tel: 112.02-846977.

Historical Sites

Just after the 6km marker on Kuching-Damai road (viewed from Damai) is a narrow gravel lane leading downhill past two wooden houses to a prehistoric human figure carved on a rock, known as the Batu Gambar. 3 km further along the road, next to the turnoff to Kampung Santubong, is the tomb of Sultan Tengah ibnu Sultan Muhammad Hassain, the first and only Sultan of Sarawak, who ruled briefly during the mid-17th Century.

Iban Longhouses

It is almost a crime to come to Sarawak without visiting an Iban longhouse. Iban hospitality is legendary, and visitors are guaranteed a good time. A longhouse is basically a terraced street of separate dwellings covered by one roof, under the authority of a headman, or tuai rumah. Each family lives in its separate apartment, or bilik, and communal activities take place outside on the covered verandah, or ruai.

Most longhouses are busy, modern farming communities, and people wear practical clothes like jeans and T-shirts when they are at work. Traditional costumes and head-dresses are usually only worn for special festivals like gawai dayak (the Iban harvest festival, 1st June), gawai antu (the ancestor festival, very rare) and weddings. If you want to see traditional rituals, customs and dances, then it is best to go on an organised tour group.

Tour groups are usually greeted with a glass of tuak (rice wine) and a welcome dance. They are then shown around and treated to various cultural performances, including dancing and drumming. You will usually be invited to attempt the ngajat dance. Do not try to refuse as guests are expected to contribute to the entertainment. If you know any dances, folk songs or poems from your own country, you will make some lifelong friends, no matter how badly you perform. Normally you will be able to stay in the longhouse overnight, but if you prefer some privacy, many tour operators have their own guest houses near the longhouse.

Most Iban longhouses that accept guests are on the Lemakan and Batang Alai river systems. Visits usually involve at least one overnight stop and a longboat trip on the river, but some longhouse safaris can last for a week or more. The Visitors’ Information Centre in Kuching has a list of approved tour operators. If you want to arrange a personal invitation, your best bet is to spend a couple of days in one of the busier market towns such as Sibu, Kuching, or Betong and make friends in the local coffee shops.

Borneo Adventure work together with the local Iban community to operate an award-winning lodge at Nanga Sumpa and a jungle camp at Lubok Kasai in Ulu Al, upriver from the Batang Alai Hydro Lake. These lodges allow visitors to experience both the traditional iban culture and the rainforest ecosystem. They are also the jumping off points for Borneo Adventure’s treks in search of wild orangutans (see Batang Alai National Park). Tel: 245175, www.borneoadventure.com.

Suntravel take community participation to a step further by arranging authentic Iban weddings and baby-naming ceremonies, conducted by tribal elders. These are not simply costume photo shoots with the locals but full rituals according to local custom (lawum) and concluding with a feast for the entire longhouse. Tel: 422023, www.suntravelborneo.com.

Bako National Park

A National Park since 1957, Bako offers the perfect introduction to Sarawak's forests and wildlife. The park covers the northern tip of the Muara Tebas peninsula, an area of some 101 square km. Despite its seemingly small size, Bako contains a wide range of vegetation - swamp forest, scrub-like padang vegetation, mangrove forest, dipterocarp forest, delicate cliff vegetation and more. In fact, at Bako it is possible to see almost every type of vegetation found in Borneo. Bako also contains a rich wildlife of birds and a coastline covered with small bays, coves and beaches.

The park’s well-marked trails offer interesting walks ranging from short strolls to serious full-day hikes, and visitors are almost guaranteed to see wildlife. Long-tailed macaque monkeys and silver leaf monkeys are ever present, wild boar are often found rummaging around the park's beaches, squirrels and monitor lizards are also common. There is every chance of seeing the rare and unusual proboscis monkeys on trails such as Telok Paku and Telok Delima, particularly early morning or late afternoon. You are more likely to see wildlife if you keep quiet and list carefully - you’ll probably hear the crash of vegetation before you are able to locate a proboscis monkey high up in the forest canopy.

Bako's plant life is both beautiful, and readily accessible. All the trails have a great variety of vegetation, from mighty 80-metre dipterocarps to dense mangrove forest. Carnivorous pitcher plants are found on the Lintang trail. Bako also has some good white sand beaches that provide perfect resting spots in between jungle walks. Telok Pandan Kecil is perhaps Bako’s best beach, but all of the beaches are bordered by limestone and sandstone cliffs, and the action of the sea has left some remarkable rock formations, such as the famous Sea Stack.

If you visit Telok Assam beach near the Park HQ, you will see hundreds of swifts hovering around their nests at the rocks at the far end of the beach. Don’t leave the beach after the sun disappears behind Mount Santubong. Watch another 20 minutes as the sky’s colours often change dramatically, providing a colourful backdrop to the mountain.

Trail Closure: Bako’s long distance trails are occasionally closed to trekkers for conservation reasons so that an area is left undisturbed for a fixed period of time. Please check with the National Parks & Wildlife booking office if you wish to know which particular trails are closed.

Accommodation: Be careful of the monkeys - they are compulsive thieves. Bako is very popular, especially at weekends, so it is advisable to book accommodation well in advance. Accommodation consists of types 4, 5 and 6 Forest Lodges (RM 238, RM 159 & RM 79.50) a Hostel (RM 42.50 per 4-bed room or RM 15.90 per bed) and a Campsite (RM 5).

The Park HQ: Upon arrival visitors must register at the Park HQ. There is an information centre, canteen and shop at the Park HQ. The information centre shows films and slide shows on Bako’s wildlife, and has full details of all the trails and what to look out for. The canteen serves a range of hot and cold drinks, snacks and light meals (fried rice, noodles etc.).

Getting There: Take a taxi (RM 40), Rapid Kuching Bus No 1 or bus sewa to Kampung Bako, a picturesque fishing village. From there you have to charter a boat at the National Park Terminal. The return fare is RM 94 per boat (up to 5 people) to the ParkHQ. There will be an additional boat fee if you wish to visit the Sea Stack or

For many people, this is where Borneo really starts! If you have to wait at Kampung Bako for a bus, or for the tide to rise, there is a good seafood restaurant near the old jetty that also serves snacks and drinks.

Batang Ai National Park

Batang Ai National Park is part of the region's largest trans-national protected area. The 24 sq km park adjoins the Lanjak-Entimau Wildlife Sanctuary in Malaysia and the Bentuang-Karimun National Park in Indonesia, forming a 10,000 sq km sanctuary for over 1,000 orangutans as well as other endangered species.

The park is only 15 km upriver from Batang Ai Hydro Lake, and offers good possibilities of seeing wild orang-utans for visitors who are prepared to spend some time trekking in the area.

The park does not offer any visitor accommodation or canteen facilities so it is best explored via organised treks hosted by local Iban communities.

Borneo Adventure work together with communities in the Ulu Ai to offer a variety of treks around the fringes of the park, including their renowned Red Ape Trail, where the chances of seeing wild orang-utans are highest, although no guarantees are offered. However, evidence of their presence, such as old and fresh nests, are almost always encountered. Trekkers must be reasonably fit, and are required to play their part in conservation by recording sightings and nest locations on portable GPS devices. Tel: 245175, www.borneoadventure.com.

Gunung Gading National Park

Gunung Gading was only opened to the public in mid-1994, after extensive environmental impact studies. Previously it was used solely as a conservation zone for the rafflesia. The emphasis is still on conservation, and Sarawak Forestry have taken measures to allow visitors to view flowering rafflesia without damaging young buds and other plants. There is a plankwalk close to where rafflesia are commonly found, and if a plant is flowering deeper in the forest, the park rangers should be able to take you on a guided walk to the site. Please take care; the small brown buds that you see on the forest floor may be rafflesia, so tread carefully and follow the park ranger’s instructions. Guiding fees are RM 30 per hour (per group).

Owing to the rafflesia’s rarity and brief flowering period, timing (and luck) are important. The park staff usually know when a plant is about to bloom. Visitors can check with the park HQ (Tel: 735144) or the National Parks and Wildlife Booking Office in Kuching (Tel: 248088). Although flowers generally bloom throughout the year, November, December and January are the peak flowering season as the frequency of blooms is high.

The rafflesia may be Gunung Gading’s main attraction, but the park is well worth visiting anyway with some enjoyable walks and a challenging jungle trek. The Waterfall trail offers the shortest walk, winding its way up through the forest past a series of waterfalls. It takes about one hour to reach the last one, Waterfall No. 7. You’ll need to be fit for the other trek, the Gunung Gading Summit trail (3-4 hours, one way) as it involves some serious hill walking. You must complete the trail the same day, as overnight stays in the forest are not permitted. From the summit you can take a side trek to Butu Balubu, which was a former communist camp during the insurgency. Further information can be obtained from the Park HQ.

Accommodation: The HQ is fairly small and consists of an information centre, toilet blocks and accommodation facilities. There are two Type 5 Forest Lodges (RM 150), a hostel (RM 40 per room, RM 15 per bed) and a campsite (RM 5). There is no canteen at the park HQ. Overnight visitors can head into nearby Lundu for food or bring their own provisions.

Getting There: Gunung Gading is 5 minutes drive from the small town of Lundu in Southwest Sarawak. Kuching tour operators can arrange tours. Independent travellers should take CPL Bus K26 from Kuching Sentral to Lundu. From there, take a taxi or white bus sewo to the park HQ.

The Heart 2 Heart With Orangutan programme allows groups of 4 and 20 people to spend a day working with the orangutans and learning about orangutan conservation. Fees start at RM350 per person. Kuching Wetlands National Park

Located just 15 km from Kuching and approximately 5 km from Damai Beach, the Kuching Wetlands National Park covers an area of 6,610 hectares on the estuarine reaches of the Sibu Laut and Salak rivers. The park mostly comprises a saline mangrove system that includes an extensive network of marine waterways and tidal creeks interconnecting the two major rivers that form the boundaries of the park. Small patches of heath forest are found in the interior of the park.

The park is an important spawning and nursery ground for fish and prawn species and contains a wide diversity of wildlife, including proboscis monkeys, long tailed macaque monkeys, silver leaf monkeys, monitor lizards, estuarine crocodiles and a range of birdlife, including kingfishers, white-bellied sea eagles and shore birds, including the rare lesser adjutant stork. Gazetted as a national park in July 2002, the site is one of the last remnants of the formerly extensive Sarawak Mangrove Forest Reserve, which previously covered approximately 17,000 hectares and was first protected in 1924. In November 2005 the park was designated a Ramsar Site, a wetland of international importance.

The area has long attracted nature enthusiasts owing to its fascinating ecosystem and excellent wildlife viewing opportunities. Kuching Wetlands offers an excellent introduction to the mangrove environment, and a chance to see a range of wildlife and spend some time sailing up the sights and sounds of one of the most interesting stretches of coastline in the whole of Sarawak.

River Cruises: A number of tour operators offer coastal and river cruises in and around the park. These cruises follow the main waterways of the park with most trips taking up half a day. Tours usually meander up the Salak River before entering the smaller rivers and creeks in the park. Some tours stop at the Malay fishing village on Salak Island, which lies just outside the park’s boundary. Santubong Wildlife Cruise: This award-winning tour is run by CPH Travel and is one of the best wildlife watching tours in Sarawak. The tour departs from the Santubong Boat Club between 4 and 5 pm (depending on tides and weather) and returns around 7.30 pm. You head first to the Santubong and Salak river estuaries (just outside the park boundary) to search for Irrawaddy dolphins. Small groups of dolphins often feed at these river mouths and occasionally enter the Salak River itself. After searching for dolphins, your boat then enters the park proper, navigating the smaller river channels. Along the way you’ll get a chance to experience the mangroves and go in search of the park’s wildlife, including proboscis monkeys. Birds often return to sites to sites where fireflies and crocodiles are commonly seen. Flashlights are used to locate the ‘eye shine’ from the crocodiles. Bookings are essential - Tel: 243708, www.cphtravel.com.my.

Maludam National Park

Maludam National Park Covers an area of 432 square kilometres and is the second largest National Park in Sarawak. It is located on the Maludam Peninsula between the Lupon and Saribas rivers and encompasses the largest single patch of peat swamp forest remaining in Sarawak and Brunei. It has a prosperous population of Red Banded Langurs (Presbytis chryselephas) remaining in the world today. It is also home to sizeable populations of proboscis monkeys and silver leaf monkeys, as well as many fascinating bird species.

Maludam is not officially open to visitors and has no visitor facilities. However, it may be visited by boat from Kampung Maludam, with guests overnighting in the village homestay. Semenggoh Wildlife Centre

For over 30 years, Semenggoth’s staff have trained young orangutans who, had they been orphaned or rescued from captivity, would have spent most of their time roaming the forest but frequently come back to the Centre for a free meal. However, if it is the fruiting season in the forest, some or even all of them may not come to feed and a visit to Matang Wildlife Centre may be more rewarding. Check with the National Conservation work began in the 1940's and in 1953 the turtle landings. The park's islands account for 95% of all nests in Sarawak, the Green Turtle accounts for 90% of nesting. The Talang-Satang National Park also includes the Pulau Tukong Ara-Banun Wildlife Sanctuary, two small islands located close to the Satang Islands. The island is known as Sarawak's "Turtle Islands."

The park encompasses the coastline and waters surrounding four islands; Pulau Talang-Talang Besar and Pulau Talang-Talang Kecil (located off Sematan), and Pulau Satang Besar and Pulau Satang Kecil (located off Santubong). These small islands are surrounded by patches of shallow coral reef which provide shelter and resting ground for sea turtles that come ashore to lay their eggs. Three of the islands in the park - Talang Besar, Talang Kecil and Satang Besar - are known as Sarawak's "Turtle Islands."

Adult female turtles return to the beach where they were born to lay their eggs, often travelling thousands of kilometres. Whilst four species of marine turtles nest in Sarawak, the Green Turtle accounts for 90% of turtle landings. The park's islands account for 95% of all recorded turtle landings in Sarawak, a clear indicator of their importance for marine turtle conservation.

Conservation work began in the 1940's and in 1953 the first tagging of Green turtles was done. Today, Sarawak Forestry manages the park and has set up a number of hatcheries. During the peak turtle nesting season (May-September), park wardens monitor the beaches for turtle landings, remove eggs from the nests and place them in the hatcheries. After 40 to 60 days incubation, the young hatchlings are released and scamper across the beach to the sea.

The park was gazetted in 1999 to enhance marine turtle conservation. The park's islands account for 95% of all nests in Sarawak, the Green Turtle accounts for 90% of nesting. The park's islands account for 95% of all nests in Sarawak, the Green Turtle accounts for 90% of nesting.

The islands are frequently seen. diving or surfing shoes must be worn to protect against venomous coral shells.

Guest Houses, Lodges, Retreats and Homestays (and anything that doesn’t fit elsewhere)

New lodges, guest houses and homestays are popping up (and disappearing) like mushrooms in Kuching. We simply don’t have space to list them all. The following is a selection of the more established outlets - you can find more on tripadvisor.com and similar websites.

Sarakraf Pavilion, 78 Jalan Tabuan (20 mins walk from centre). Tel: 258771 Email: info@sarakraf.com.my. www.sarakraf.com.my. The City Homestay offers well-furnished dorms, shared-bath rooms and ensuite rooms in a converted house, Band B-D, while the Boutique Homestay has 5 luxurious rooms in the historic mansion complete with full board, Band D.
EATING OUT

Kuching has a great deal to offer the adventurous gourmet. As well as typical Malaysian and Western fare, there is a whole range of local delicacies worth trying - see Sarawakian Specialities. At the last count there were more than a thousand food outlets in Kuching. As we can barely scratch the surface in this guide, we have generally focussed on popular, well known and centrally located outlets. We strongly recommend that visitors who have time get out and about in Kuching's suburbs and make their own dining discoveries.

Coffee Shops

Coffee-shops with their attendant food-stalls are dotted all over town. Some of the most interesting and traditional ones are found around Jln Carpenter, Main Bazaar, Jln Ban Hock and Jln Pudu. The coffee-shops on Lebuh Temple are conveniently located near Jln Carpenter.

Chinese

Kuching has a huge selection of Chinese food outlets, from simple noodle stalls to full-blown banquetting palaces. Many of them feature regular food promotions - see local press for details. More Chinese restaurants are listed under Seafood.
Indian

Many of Kuching’s “Indian” restaurants actually serve a mixture of Indian and Malay food. Saying that, there are quite a few places well worth trying.

King’s Curry, Wisma Nation Horizon, Jln Petanak. Tel: 016 8879936. Worth a detour (15-20 mins walk from centre) for the authentic North & South Indian food, including tandoori grills and naans, as well as some excellent Indonesian dishes. Late Night Eats

Most restaurants in Kuching close at or before 10 pm. Fortunately the late night eateries in the city centre seem to congregate together in certain locations. All are open until 2 am unless otherwise stated. Around Main Bazaar, the burger stall outside Singgahsana Lodge does great home-made burgers and the Old Bazaar Café serves western and local dishes. Jalan Ban Hock, opposite the Tabuan Roundabout, offers lok-lok, noodles and Malay dishes at Lok Lok, pasta, burgers and cakes at Twin Apple Café and barbecued pork from the stall behind Ruai Pub. The city end of Jalan Padungan offers grilled and roasted chicken dishes at RJ Ayam Bakar (Jln Abell), spicy Malay rice and noodle dishes at Planet Sambal (60 Jln Padungan, open 24 hours), and Chinese noodle dishes at the Kapi Hotel Coffee Shop (open 24 hours). At the other end of Jalan Padungan is Homecook Padungan, a bustling late night coffee shop known for its Sarawak laksa. You can find plenty of other late night eating possibilities in food centres throughout Kuching - taxi drivers will be happy to advise.

Malay

Malay food served in Sarawak is generally not quite as spicy as that served in Peninsular Malaysia. There are not many specifically Malay food outlets in the city centre, but most food courts and many coffee shops have Malay food stalls. Adventurous gourmets can take a taxi or bus sewa to the Jln Semarang - Jln Santubong area of Petra Jaya, where there are literally dozens of small family-run Malay restaurants, mostly operating out of their homes (early evenings only).

Rumah Hijau, 24 Jln Rubber. You can’t miss this bright turquoise building that offers probably the best selection of regional Malay food in town, including ayam penyet, ome pedik and laksa Penang. There are also a few simple western dishes on the menu just in case you don’t select any good choice of cakes and desserts too. Open 9 am -11 pm. Tel: 016-5891947. There’s also a branch at Riveredge, Petra Jaya, handy for the Satok Weekend Market.

Sarawak Specialities

Sarawak laksa - a spicy noodle dish laced with beansprouts, shredded chicken and prawns in rich coconut gravy - is the great Borneo breakfast. Laksa can be found in many coffee shops and everyone in Kuching has their favourite stall - two of the best in the city centre are Chong Choon (Jln Abell, opp. Maybank), and Choon Hui (Jln Ban Hock). Both are sold out by 11 am. Further afield, the Golden Aches café at 3 Mile Roundabout, Madam Tung Jat Jln Petanak and Mom’s Laksa at Jln Astana have a devoted following. Tinot Laksa serves their much-loved breakfast in a kampung garden setting on Jln Pattingan, Mon-Sat 6.30 am - 10 am. Kolo mee, egg noodles served with minced beef, pork or chicken or thinly-sliced char siew (barbequed pork) is Kuching’s other signature noodle dish. Try it at Min Joo (Jln Carpenter), Sin Lian Shin (Jalan Geen) and dozens of other spots around town. The best bet for pork-free kolo mee is Mohammad Lim’s stall at Ting Café, Taman Sri Sarawak.

Umei, a spicy salad of raw marinated fish, limes and shallots, is the traditional dish of the Melanau people, and is often found at hotel buffets or Malay food stalls. Local vegetables are served widely, particularly the two types of crispy jungle fern, midin and paku. Good local version (ask for deer meat) is available straight from the rainforest. Kitchen open specials” are only offered when fresh ingredients are available.

True blue Borneo cuisine, including chicken-in-bamboo, jungle ferns and fish specialties. A selection of “true blue Borneo specials” are only offered when fresh ingredients are available. The menu at Tanju Bistro and The Dyak. M-Bar & Bistro at The Ranee, Main Bazaar. Although they serve great tapas and international dishes, the main attraction here is the authentic native Sarawak cuisine, including chicken-in-bamboo, jungle ferns and fish specialties. A selection of “true blue Borneo specials” are only offered when fresh ingredients are available straight from the rainforest. Kitchen open 6 - 11 pm. Tel: 258833.

Seafood
Kuching has superb seafood. The steamed pomfret and manchong fish are unmissable. Assam prawns, sambal prawns and slipper lobster are other local favourites. One dish that you are unlikely to find elsewhere is ambal (bamboo clam), which is usually cooked as a mild dry curry or steamed in Chinese wine. Unusual appearance (looks like a worm in a bamboo shell!) - but tastes superb. None of the restaurants listed below serve pork.

See Good, off Ban Hock Road, opposite Hu Kuok Inn. Tel: 251397/012-8832629. Probably Kuching’s most popular seafood restaurant. See Good’s cooking style is robust rather than fussy, with strong-flavoured sauces and lots of herbs. Friendly hosts the Kong family will happily guide you through the extensive menu, and can make some interesting suggestions. Also has the biggest (and cheapest) selection of wines in Kuching. Open 12 midday - 10.30 pm. Closed 4th and 18th of every month. Come before 6.30 or around 9 to be sure of a table.

Top Spot Food Court, Jln Bukit Mata, probably offers the widest choice of seafood outlets in all of Borneo. Set in landscaped surroundings on the breezy top floor of a car park, there are well over a dozen al-fresco restaurants here offering Malay seafood, Chinese seafood, seafood curries, claypot seafood, satay, and of course more seafood. The fresh fish and crustaceans are displayed for you to take your pick (as seen on Discovery Channel). Unusual and very, very popular. 12 am - 11 pm daily. All stalls open 6pm - 10 pm.

Steamboat
A local favourite - an all-you-can-eat seafood buffet which you cook yourself in a gas-heated stewing pot bubbling and sizzling in the middle of your table, with a barbecue plate attached for grilling marinated beef, lamb and chicken. If you have never tried before, the staff will show you how it’s done. Very Malaysian, excellent value (RM 20-30 per person) and great fun. The city centre’s three most popular steamboat restaurants are all within a stone’s throw of each other on Jln Ban Hock. If one is packed, simply check out the others.
Annuar BBQ Steamboat, Persiaran Ban Hock (Tel: 019 8867900) is the only Muslim steamboat in the area. Always busy so come early or late to get a table. Closed Mondays.
D11 Steamboat (behind Hornbill’s Corner) is also very popular. Pork-free. Open daily.

Tel: 237468. www.sarakraf.com.my.

Vegetarian
If you’re a strict vegetarian, make sure you say so when ordering vegetable dishes in non-vegetarian outlets - dried prawns, belacan (shrimp paste), shredded chicken, etc., are often used in vegetable dishes. Most cook-to-order restaurants can prepare vegetarian dishes on request.

SHOPPING

Kuching is an excellent place to buy Borneo arts, crafts and curios. Particular items to look out for are Iban pua kumbu and Malay songket (hand-woven textiles), Iban hornbill carvings (used in rituals) and silver jewellery, Bidayuh baskets, Orang Ulu beadwork and woodcarvings, and Penan blowpipes and mats. Most of the antique and curio shops are scattered along Main Bazaar and Carpenter Street, with a few in the Padungan area. Whilst a few are laid out like elegant galleries, most are crammed full with every possible variety of Sarawakian bric-a-brac, and items from Brunei, Kalimantan and Sabah. Well-established outlets on Main Bazaar include Native Arts, Nelson's Gallery, Rainforest, Sandakan Art Gallery and Arts of Asia, all offering quality antiques and handicrafts at reasonable prices.

Prices of handicrafts are not always fixed so you may have to bargain. If you have the time it's best to shop around and get a rough idea before buying. Certain antiques require an export permit from the Sarawak Museum. The more established shops can assist with this and with shipping arrangements (if required). Most art and craft shops close on Sundays.
